Any search firm engaged to assist the Board or a committee of the Board in identifying candidates for appointment to the Board is specifically directed to include diverse candidates generally, and multiple women candidates in particular. Environment

As a good corporate citizen, we strive to minimize the environmental impacts of our operations as well as help our customers and communities be better prepared for more frequent natural disasters caused by a changing climate.

Why We Care

We believe a comprehensive environmental strategy is important to our responsibility as a corporate citizen. It's also good business — reducing our energy, water, waste and paper use directly cuts our operating costs.

As a company in the business of managing risk, we are also keenly aware of the role we play in addressing climate change. This includes mitigation efforts in our own operations and influencing customers' behavior. It also includes helping our customers prepare for and adapt to the impact of climate change and more extreme and unpredictable weather patterns.

Our focus on sustainable operations not only helps to reduce our impact, but it has the added benefit of helping us to prepare for future climate change by increasing employees' awareness and their ability to innovate new products and services. Our employees are proud to work for a company that implements innovative programs that reduce water bottle and paper usage.

What We Do

Running a lean and high-performing company means looking for efficiency in all our operations. So we continuously strive to improve our performance, consistent with our core beliefs and sustainability efforts.

That includes making our facilities and fleet more energy efficient; reducing our paper use; finding new ways to recycle, reuse and conserve; and working with our suppliers and business partners to minimize Milestone's overall impact. We set goals and closely monitor progress, and we work with leaders and the public to address issues related to climate change and disaster preparedness.

Our Environmental Policy

We are guided by a comprehensive policy that applies to our value chain from suppliers to customers, employees, agency owners, business partners, investors and the public.

In support of that policy, we:

- Seek to reduce energy use and limit greenhouse gas emissions
- Focus on conserving water to help preserve an increasingly scarce resource
- Use resources responsibly, from purchase and use through recycling and, as a last resort, disposal
- Minimize the consumption of fossil fuels and reduce harmful emissions, airborne pollutants, traffic and parking lot congestion

➤ SUPPLIER/CONTRACTOR SELECTION AND CRITERIA

Dealing with Suppliers

In deciding among competing suppliers, we weigh the facts impartially to determine the best supplier. This is usually done by the people in the Administration Department for office supplies or equipment or the MIS Department for Computer or computer related items.

Whether or not you are in a position to influence decisions involving the evaluation or selection of suppliers, you must not exert or attempt to exert influence to obtain “special treatment” for a particular supplier. Even to appear to do so can undermine the integrity of our established procedures. Milestone uses a competitive evaluation process to select the best suppliers. Prices and other information submitted by suppliers and Milestone's evaluation of that information are confidential to Milestone. Employees and former employees may not use any of this information outside of Milestone without written permission from management. It is essential that suppliers competing for Milestone's business have confidence in the integrity of our selection process.

Avoiding Reciprocal Dealing

Seeking reciprocity is contrary to Milestone's policy and may also be unlawful. It is prohibited to tell a prospective supplier that the decision to buy its goods or services is conditioned on the supplier's agreement to buy Milestone's products or services.

This does not mean that a Milestone client cannot be a Milestone supplier or that Milestone can never consider its other relationships with the supplier when it is evaluating the supplier. It simply means that Milestone's decision to buy goods and services from a supplier must be made independently from that supplier's decision to buy Milestone's products and services.

6. Reporting and Administration Process

6.1. Communication Channel

Depending on the seriousness and sensitivity of the issues involved the Whistleblower may directly approach:

- Chairman, Audit Committee

- President

- Internal Auditor

If the Whistleblower feels that issue is highly sensitive and it is important to take the matter beyond the above-mentioned designated officials then following are the possible contact points:

- Independent Directors

- Chairman of the Board of Directors

- The External Auditor

Employees should normally raise concerns with their line manager who would notify the President. However, if for some reason the employee does not feel comfortable to report through his/her manager, then he/she should take his/her concerns directly to the President or any appropriate authority as described above.

6.2. Reporting

Reports/Concerns may be raised verbally or in writing. The person who wishes to report is encouraged to provide information on following lines:

- background and history of the concern (giving relevant dates);

- reasons why they are particularly concerned about the situation.

Although the Whistleblower is not expected to prove beyond doubt the truth of an allegation, he/she should be able to demonstrate to the contacted official that there are reasonable grounds for concern.

Concerns may also be raised anonymously, if the Whistleblower wishes to do so. However, such concern will be accepted based on merit only. The Whistleblower is encouraged to put his/her name whenever possible and facilitate informed investigation. It should be noted that concerns expressed anonymously are much less powerful and will only be considered at the discretion of the Company. In exercising this discretion, the factors that are taken into account are:

- The seriousness of the issue
- The credibility of the concern
- The likelihood of confirming the allegation from attributable sources.

6.3. Addressing complaints/concerns

- a. Once the complaint is received and if complainant's identity is known, the receiving party (as the case may be) will acknowledge receipt of the complaint.
- b. Subsequently the allegation will be evaluated by a designated individual or a team with the necessary authority and skills to conduct an initial evaluation of the allegation and determine the appropriate course of action to resolve it.
- c. Depending upon the nature, potential impact, and seniority of persons involved, the investigation team will be determined by the Board or senior management. In cases that involve any board member or senior management, the Board should decide about the investigating team and may want to hire outside independent advisers to assist in the evaluation.

6.4. Reporting

- a. The investigation team will report its findings to the party overseeing the investigation, such as senior management, directors, or legal counsel.
- b. The nature and distribution of the report may be affected by the goals of protecting legal privileges and avoiding defamatory statements. For similar reasons, advice of counsel will be sought before the party overseeing the investigation makes public statements or other communications regarding the investigation.

6.5. Corrective Action

- a. After the investigation has been completed, the corrective action will be determined.
- b. Any action taken would be appropriate under the circumstances, applied consistently to all levels of employees, including senior management, and would be taken only after consultation with individuals responsible for such decisions. Management consultation with legal counsel is strongly recommended before taking disciplinary, civil, or criminal action.

6.6. Notification

The Administration Department is required to notify and communicate the existence and contents of this Policy to existing employees of the company as well as to new employees that are appointed in the future, along with suitable e-mail / postal addresses for reporting to the President or Chairman of the Audit Committee by the Whistle Blowers.
